by what police believe is a network of thieves.

Homes have been ransacked for significant amounts of cash and high value jewellery, including what officers have called 'Asian jewellery'.

Other items taken included clothing and cars. Police say the value of stolen items is in excess of £100,000.

DS Steve Birchall said

police believed the incidents were linked to one network of people, and the thieves were not believed to be local.

He said: "Generally, we do really well on detection rates in this area. This series has been completely unpredictable and has come in the last two months.

Candidates to fight for seat

BANBURY: Three candidates will contest two by-elections for Ruscott ward at Cherwell District Council and Banbury Town Council on September 26.

The polls have been triggered by the resignation of Labour member Patrick Cartledge, who was not available for comment.

In both polls, Mark Cherry will stand for Labour and Pat Tompkins will stand for the Conservatives. Christian Miller will stand for the UK Independence Party in the district election.

The deadline for proxy vote applications was yesterday.

Man died after falling in street

W OXON: The death of an 86-year-old man who fell in the street was accidental, an inquest heard last Thursday.

John Brown, of Boulsters Barn Cottage, Churchill Road, Chipping Norton, fell outside Sainsbury's in Chipping Norton on June 6 this year.

The retired chartered accountant was admitted to Oxford's John Radcliffe Hospital with a head injury and underwent surgery.

The inquest at Oxfordshire Coroner's Court heard he died on June 16 from hospital-acquired pneumonia after a blood clot on the brain.

'Dog's best pal' stages 60s party

Lydia Martin of Dogs for the Disabled with trainee autism assistance dog Dennis receives £1,000 cheque from Karl Thompson

IF DOGS are a man's best friend, then Karl Thompson is a dog's best friend.

Mr Thompson held a '60s-themed party for 150 people in his back garden to raise money for Banbury charity Dogs for the Disabled.

He raised £1,000 for the charity, which trains dogs to help adults and children across the UK with conditions like autism.

The Summer 60s Festival, which took place on August 17, was Mr Thompson and his wife June's fifth annual fundraiser at their Great Bourton home.

The event saw performances from some of Mr Thompson's friends in bands including Chris Farlowe, Cupid's Inspiration and The Shakers.

In previous years, they have raised funds for Katharine House Hospice, Banbury Guide Dogs and Changing Faces.

Mr Thompson, 60, who owns Bourton Drain Services, said: "I read a story in the Banbury Cake about a lad who they were training a dog for and my mind was made up."

Dogs for the Disabled was established in 1988 and this year celebrates its 25th anniversary.

The charity has trained more than 650 dogs and currently has nearly 280 working in England and Wales.

It costs £12,000 to fund each dog from birth and train it, and nearly £20,000 to fund the dog for its working life.

■ Councillors decide to retain terms like chairman

'Sexist' titles to stay after vote

A BID to ban 'sexist' council titles has been thrown out.

Labour and Green councillors voted to remove the 'man' from the traditional term 'chairman' given to both men and women at Oxfordshire County Council.

But after a 45-minute debate at a full council meeting the motion failed with the opposition branding it a waste of time.

It was tabled by new Banbury Ruscott councillor and Labour deputy leader John Christie, pictured, who said he had strong personal reasons for trying to get rid of what he saw as sexist language.

He said: "When my daughter was six I remember quite distinctly her asking 'dad, can't I become a policeman?'"

"I think people should be allowed to follow their con-

By Freddie Whittaker

sciences. My proposal is saying that I'm asking members to respect one another and that, if I want to use gender-inclusive language, I should be able to.

"We will be a better country when the last bastion of sexist language is gone."

Currently, the traditional term 'chairman' is used by most councillors, and the use of 'chair' - Labour's preferred title - is often greeted with rebukes.

The Liberal Democrats refused to support the motion and instead abstained after an amendment the group tabled, which would allow chairmen to dictate what they wanted to be called, failed.

Lib Dem deputy group leader and Abingdon South councillor Neil Fawcett said: "I find the use of 'chairman' out-dated."

"I would prefer to use the term 'chair'. However, I also respect those who take a different view."

"My personal approach to this is if the person in the chair tells me they want to be addressed in a particular way I will do that."

But several Tory councillors were vocal in their opposition to the motion, and branded the whole debate a waste of time.

Wroxton and Hook Norton councillor George Reynolds said: "I have three daughters, they're far to the right of me and they would be happy to be 'chairman' or 'madam chairman'."

Independent councillor Lynda Atkins also opposed the motion.

She added: "Any woman of my vintage in this room will at some stage in life have encountered gender discrimination. I suppose joining the RAF in the 1980s and Territorial Army in the 1990s I should have expected it."

"I supported the Lib Dem amendment because I feel I have earned the right to determine how I will be addressed."

The motion failed, with only Labour and Green councillors voting in favour. The Tories and independent councillor Lynda Atkins voted against, while Lib Dems and other independents abstained.

Veterans present as town honours the Battle of Britain in 1940 Parade for RAF's 'few'

By Fran Bardsley

SECOND World War veterans joined with Royal Air Force personnel to mark the anniversary of the Battle of Britain on Sunday.

Banbury residents lined the streets to watch the parade, which went from Banbury Town Hall to St Mary's Church.

A service was held at the church to pay tribute to the Royal Air Force personnel who lost their lives in the Battle of Britain in 1940.

Some of the veterans who attended the event spoke about their memories of the battle.

Those taking part in the parade included members of the Banbury Royal Air Force Association, the 1460 Banbury Air Cadet Squadron and United States Air Force servicemen from RAF Croughton.

Banbury has a particular significance for the war effort, as much of the aluminium for the planes was manufactured at the town's former Alcan plant.

Grant will go towards a new sixth-form building School receives a £963,000 boost

By Samantha McGregor

WORK to build a new sixth form at a Banbury special needs school could start early next year.

Frank Wise School has been given a £963,468 grant from the Government to help pay for a new building for post-16 education.

The new facility will cater for more than 20 pupils and will replace a temporary building currently used for sixth formers.

It is understood the school will also make a contribution towards the cost of the new building, but the figure was not available when the Banbury Cake went to press.

Deputy headteacher Simon Knight said: "Essentially, the reason we need it is that the facility they are currently being taught in is not designed with their specific needs in mind. What they are getting is a learning environment that enables us to maximise their potential, and to give a highly specialised and highly-personalised learning experience."

'Well deserved': Anne Bonner

There are currently about 20 pupils in the school's sixth form, and the school has just over 100 pupils.

Mr Knight said: "The intention is to enable us to have the capability to meet the post-16 needs of our school.

"The new building will be designed for numbers of pupils into the 20s.

"This enables us to provide them with a permanent home and a bespoke classroom environment."

Governor Anne Bonner, who is also a town, district and county councillor, said the grant was "well-deserved".

She said: "It's absolutely amazing, but then it's an absolutely amazing school.

"We are so lucky to have this school in Oxfordshire. The level of commitment by staff never ceases to amaze me. It's such a lovely, happy atmosphere.

"Ever so much hard work has gone into the bid. It was well-deserved."

She said the sixth form gave the youngsters and their parents a much-needed option after the end of children's formal education.

Mrs Bonner added: "It will be a fresh lease of life for them."

Work to design the new building is in the final stages and a planning application is expected to be submitted to Cherwell District Council soon.

If planning is approved, work is expected to start early next year. It is not yet known how long building work will take.

Police target teen parties

■ N OXON: Teenagers throwing unsupervised house parties organised over social media are the target of a police operation.

Thames Valley Police's Chervell division wants to clamp down on "loud, alcohol-fuelled underage house parties".

"Operation Jazz" has seen officers patrol the district with council environmental health workers to serve noise abatement orders.

Inspector Claire Storry said: "One of the major concerns at these underage parties is that youngsters drink excessively, which tends to result in antisocial behaviour."

Victims get a chance to talk

Portrait gives plenty of paws for thought

Gallery owner Chris Baylis and artist Shirley Cherry, left, with Toni and Sandi Lewis and dog Peg

A UNIQUE portrait exhibition was opened by one of its stars, a stray dog from Afghanistan.

Peg, a mongrel, was adopted by Private Conrad Lewis while he served with the Parachute Regiment.

But when the 22-year-old soldier was killed by a sniper in February 2011 his parents Tony and Sandi Lewis arranged to have her brought back to their Warwickshire home.

After seeing the news coverage, artist Shirley Cherry, from Tysoe near Banbury, painted the dog's portrait.

She said: "It was a nice thing to do. I do think dogs are wonderful characters and they do have their own stories to tell."

Mr Lewis, 51, was at the launch on Friday.

He said: "It was another unusual experience for us but another opportunity to tell the story of how Peg came back to the UK and, more importantly, to tell the story of my son who didn't make it back."

The exhibition runs until the end of the month.

Ex-broker jailed for drug supply intent

■ Court told jail for man found with cannabis could cost him his home and job

By Joe Nimmo

A FORMER insurance broker has been jailed after he was convicted of possessing cocaine with intent to supply.

Christopher Waite, pictured, of Parklands, Banbury, was sentenced to two years in prison by a judge in Oxford Crown Court on Monday.

The 30-year-old was arrested after police searched his home and found around £3,000 worth of the class-A drug, along with scales, eight mobile phones and a fake bank note on May 25 last year.

Waite was found guilty of possessing cocaine with intent to supply and having custody or control of counterfeit currency after a trial. He also admitted possessing cannabis.

Richard Germain, defending, said if he was sent to prison Waite could lose his current job and even his home.

He said: "He will lose his job, he and his fiancée will lose their house, because they won't be able to pay for it."

"And he will come into contact with a lot of undesirable in prison – so a suspended sentence does have its advantages."

Mr Germain also argued that the cocaine his client had been caught with was of an "exceptionally low purity" of just 10 per cent.

But Judge Charles Harris told him this did not necessarily work in Waite's favour and that even drug users might be "entitled" to better than that.

He said to the defendant: "Drugs are bad for you and they are bad for society in general. They cause dependency, distress, despair and crime."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Trevor Skidmore feels that it's all about service. "Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole."

Cloudy2Clear service the Oxford, Banbury & Abingdon areas and Trevor is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Trevor a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

■ 60 catering students are praised after taking over at cafeteria

Hospitality trainees run college canteen

HOSPITALITY and catering students are getting a taste of working life with a new venture at Oxford & Cherwell Valley College.

From this month about 60 students are running the canteen and cafeteria at the Broughton Road campus in Banbury.

It was last run by an external organisation, whose workers are now employed by the college.

Learning manager for hospitality and tourism Maxine Smith said: "This exciting new venture will involve our students in every aspect of running a busy, commercial cafeteria and canteen."

"Our staff teams will work alongside the students to support them as they oversee food orders, prepare, cook and serve meals and snacks and provide an excellent customer service."

"The running of the canteen and cafeteria will broaden our students' horizons and will complement their time working in the Cherwell Restaurant.

"Together it will offer them a fantastic grounding in the industry to give them the skills which employers demand and an excellent head start in their careers."

Catering supervisor Lisa Comrie, who has worked at the college canteen for eight years, added: "It has so far been a big success."

"The look on the students' faces when they realise they have done a good job is amazing. They are proud."

"It's such a good idea to get them in to help. We are not chefs and they are so we are constantly learning from each other."

Designer accessories auction for Oxfordshire hospices is a first

Chance to do good

and bag a bargain

Katy Dyer with some of the 60 handbags

WOMEN are getting the chance to grab designer handbags for a fraction of the usual price at a new fundraising event for Oxfordshire hospices, including Adderbury's Katharine House.

Handbags for Hospices will see up to 40 handbags auctioned at Malmaison Oxford Hotel.

Today's event at the Oxford Castle hotel is the first one to be held outside Sussex, where Handbags for Hospices was founded last year.

Organiser Katy Dyer, 37, says she is looking forward to the auction, which she hopes will raise a few thousand pounds.

She said: "Most women will have a handbag in the back of their wardrobe that they don't use.

"They might be brand new, pre-loved, designer or high street. The auction is great because each handbag will go to someone who wants to use it while raising money for charity."

The personal stylist and image consultant from Thame said that more than 60 handbags had been donated so far.

Among them is a new Coccinelle designer handbag and bags from Accessorize.

Prices at the auction will start at £10 for high street bags and about £50 for designer ones.

Mrs Dyer added that one donor, whose mother recently died at Sobell House, at the Churchill Hospital in Headington, was a huge fan of handbags and also the inspiration for giving away a bag.

She said: "At the start my involvement was helping to put on a fun, women-based event.

"But it's turned into something quite poignant and I feel moved by people donating like that."

Handbags for Hospices was founded in Brighton last year by Abigail Bowen and Lucy Wilkes and has since held four auctions in Sussex.

It is currently awaiting charity status and has other auctions planned for London and Sussex.

Mrs Dyer met co-founder Miss Bowen through personal styling networking and decided to support the organisation with an Oxford auction.

Tickets for the auction, which runs from 6.30pm to 9.30pm in the visitors' room, cost £5 and include a glass of wine or soft drink.

Sobell House Hospice Charity fundraiser Kevin Game said: "It's a great idea and the nice thing is that we share it with Katharine House Hospice."

United fan cleared of charges

A BANBURY man was among Oxford United fans cleared of taking part in the violence which broke out before the team's clash with Bristol Rovers.

The trouble began near the Kassam Stadium ticket office before the match between the League Two rivals on February 9 this year.

Trouble erupted at about 3pm following earlier fights between fans outside the Priory pub, next to the Grenoble Road stadium, and around its car park.

Following a trial at Oxford Magistrates' Court on Friday, one fan was convicted of a public order offence, but the other defendants were cleared of taking part in the disorder.

Five people were found not guilty of using threatening words or behaviour to cause harassment, alarm or distress.

They were Gavin Butler, 26, of Abbey Road, Banbury; Michael Harris, 41, of Stubbs Avenue, Headington, Oxford; Helen Masters, 34, of London Road, Headington, Oxford; Jack Sullivan, 18, of Bridle Path, Woodcote, near Reading; and a 17-year-old who cannot be named for legal reasons.

Tull songs new – and some we used to know

Martin Barre is about to release his fourth album, Away With Words

HE MAY be best known as the guitarist with Jethro Tull, but Martin Barre is more than just another 1970s prog rock survivor.

A talented artist in his own right, Barre is about to release his fourth solo album, and he is celebrating with a UK tour which, on October 5, reaches Banbury.

The album, Away With Words, will appeal to fans of Barre's solo material and Tull followers of old, featuring new arrangements of the band's material together with new compositions.

And with one-leg-balancing flute-brother Ian Anderson's seminal prog outfit still in indefinite hiatus, this is the best chance fans of the Luton-born band will get to relive those heady experimental jazz/ folk-rock sounds made famous on classic albums Thick as a Brick and Aqualung.

By Tim Hughes

Barre's career with Tull stretches back to 1969 when he was picked by Anderson to replace Mick Abrahams on guitar. He remains the band's second-longest standing member after Anderson, and has appeared on all but the first of their albums.

His show at The Mill will see him bashing out the usual Jethro classics along with a clutch of less known gems with the invaluable help of engineer James Bragg.

Favourites which also feature on the album include Requiem, From a Deadbeat to an Old Greaser, Moths, Home and Fire at Midnight.

And Barre proves himself a talented multi-instrumentalist, taking on duties on acoustic, classical and electric guitars, bouzouki, mandolin, flute and clarinet.

"Rearranging and representing the Tull songs featured on this album became a very pleasant and rewarding task," says Barre. "These lesser-known songs have always been among my favourite pieces of music and reworking them brought back many good memories".

Referring to the new tunes, also featured on the album, he goes on: "I have written the rest of the music, hopefully with sympathy and taste. Composing and rearranging is my passion."

"Bringing together the many acoustic instruments was a delight for me, but of course the electric guitar couldn't be totally left out of the picture."

■ Martin Barre plays The Mill, Banbury, on October 5. Tickets are £17.50 (subject to booking fee). More details from martinbarre.com

Shadow beneath chef's childhood sky

CELEBRITY chef Rick Stein recently returned with a film camera crew to the farm in West Oxfordshire that had been his family home.

The 150-acre mixed farm just outside Churchill, on the road to Chipping Norton, gave the celebrated seafood chef, restaurateur and author his first memories and love of good food.

In his television series, Rick Stein's Food Heroes, which saw him touring the UK, he said: "There's a whole band of people out there producing small quantities of food with passionate commitment who look after their land properly, treat their flocks or herds with affection and take their time to grow or rear crops or animals."

Only many years later did he realise he was talking about his own Oxfordshire home.

But seeing the farm again, for a film to promote his new autobiography, Under a Mackerel Sky, pictured, stirred feelings of pain as well as pride.

For there was a shadow over what in many ways was an idyllic childhood in the rural Oxfordshire, with regular holidays in Cornwall, where his family had a house on Trevoe Head.

Unconventional, attractive to women and a marvellous party host who would put the present day Chipping Norton Set to shame, his father Eric Stein was a charismatic personality.

The young Rick, however, would sometimes be embarrassed by his father's sometimes manic behaviour and deep depressions, all symptoms of bipolar disorder.

Seeing again the swimming pool at the farm brought the memories flooding back.

His father had built it, during a manic phase, in a summer of drought.

When Rick was 18 he learnt that his father had thrown himself off a cliff in Cornwall.

His difficult relationship with his father and how the tragedy was to shape his own life and personality are key themes of his new book.

Weather leaves town on losing end of bowl out with final winners Wimbledon

Rain 'robs' Banbury of a chance in semis

BANBURY captain Jimmy Phillips felt they were robbed of their big day after losing to Wimbledon in a semi-final bowl out at the Kia Oval on Friday.

The rain which fell for much of the day meant proceedings ended in an indoor shoot-out, with holders Wimbledon progressing after hitting the stumps three times to Banbury's one.

Wimbledon were deserving winners after restricting Banbury to 27-5 from 6.2 overs in a match reduced to seven overs.

But Phillips said: "We could have stomachached losing if we had a 20-over game, if we had gone out there and been beaten in the course of a game of cricket.

"At the minute it feels a little bit like we have been robbed of the big day we earned.

"Half the team didn't even get out on to the surface."

Rain meant the start was postponed until 2.15 and the game reduced from 20 to seven overs. Wimbledon chose to bowl and took full advantage of the conditions.

With the ball keeping low, clean hitting was difficult and Banbury struggled from the start.

Nathan Hawkes was bowled by Smith in the first over.

Haupt flicked a clever six over fine leg for Banbury's only boundary, but he soon holed out to Darren Hooey at mid-off.

Luke Ryan and Richard West tried to get the scoreboard going, but Wimbledon did not let up.

At 27-5 it was raining heavily and the umpires took the players off. Banbury were given until 4pm to finish their innings and Wimbledon until 4.25pm to start theirs. The wet weather put paid to that, leaving a bowl out, with five players getting two deliveries each.

Smith, Rawlinson and Neil Turk hits the stumps for Wimbledon, but only Olly Wright succeeded for Banbury. Wimbledon went on to beat Ormskirk 5-1 in the final in a bowl-out.

United stick to losing formula

Banbury Utd (Talabi 5)	1
Cirencester Utd (Davies 42, Henry 90+1)	2

FOR the seventh consecutive season Banbury departed at the first qualifying round stage as they slipped to a surprise home defeat. September 2006 was Banbury's last FA Cup game win.

And while it was a stoppage time goal that earned the Gloucestershire side the win, United can really have no complaints about the result.

The visitors dominated the second half and it was quite remarkable that the game had not been sealed well before this late stage.

Banbury began the game well enough and took an early lead when Scott Bridges's corner from the left found Adeyinka Talabi on the edge of the six yard box and he got up well to head home.

The home side looked dangerous going forward and on 22 minutes Bridges put Kynan Isaac away down the right, the shot well saved by Glyn Garner.

But Cirencester began to dominate proceedings and it was no surprise when they equalised just before half time, Steve Davies shooting home low from the edge of the area.

Banbury might have snatched a second goal in the 84th minute when a Simpson header was well saved. The extra-time goal ended any argument.

Banbury United: Bedwell, Cray, Westwood (Mbamara 83), Bridges, Blossom, Ryan, Fraser-Allen, Martin, Kynan, Isaac, Morgan (Simpson 55). Subs not used: Pinto, McNulty, Evangelinos, Menezes, Abrahams. Attendance: 171.

Petrol-fuelled rivalry in a top-speed dance of death

RUSH (15, 122 mins)

Drama/Action/Romance. Chris Hemsworth, Daniel Bruhl, Olivia Wilde, Jamie Sives, Natalie Dormer, Pierfrancesco Favino, Alexandra Maria Lara, David Calder, Julian Rhind-Tutt, Patrick Baladi, Christian McKay. Director: Ron Howard.

TO TRULY excel in a chosen field you need to be challenged, pushed to the limit of human endurance to find previously untapped reserves of strength and courage.

For this reason sport is littered with bitter rivalries between incredible champions, whose desire to win – regardless of the consequences and the physical risks – inspires awe and devotion. Take, for example, the battles of athleticism and skill between Bjorn Borg and John McEnroe which electrified tennis courts, replicated in the women's game by the showdowns between Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert.

Some of the fiercest rivalry, though, has been contested on Formula 1 racetracks. Ayrton Senna and Alain Prost famously clashed in and out of their supercharged machines, compelling the French driver to declare that "Senna wanted to destroy me".

During the 1970s, rubber burnt and tempers frayed between two very different drivers: charismatic ladies' man James Hunt and incredibly ambitious Austrian speed fiend Niki Lauda. Their daredevil duels reached a horrifying crescendo at the 1976 German Grand Prix at the Nurburgring when Lauda's Ferrari burst into flames, trapping him in the inferno. An incredible six weeks later, Lauda emerged from hospital with extensive scarring, determined to prevent Hunt from claiming the chequered flag at Monza.

This incredible story of courage and resilience is dramatised in Rush, Ron Howard's superb biopic that charts the rivalry between Hunt (Chris Hemsworth) and Lauda (Daniel Bruhl) from their early days through to the glamour of the Formula 1 circus.

The two men have very different approaches to their craft. Hunt relishes the trappings of fame, proposing to his first wife, model Suzy Miller (Olivia Wilde), on the spur of the moment, then allowing excesses to poison their relationship and drive her into the arms of Richard Burton. Lauda is devoted to testing, working his mechanics into the ground to shave a few hundredths off lap times at the expense of personal relationships.

So when he falls madly in love with Marlene Knaus (Alexandra Maria Lara), he fears the repercussions.

"Happiness is the enemy, it weakens you. Suddenly you have something to lose," he declares.

Directed with brio and turbo-charged by stirring performances from Hemsworth and Bruhl, Rush is a riveting evocation of a bygone era. An uplifting story of admiration and friendship purrs beneath the bonnet of Howard's direction, offering plenty of high-speed thrills for petrol heads.

Screenwriter Morgan selects the choicest cuts of the facts for the big screen, including horrific scenes at the hospital, where a badly burnt Lauda drifts in and out of consciousness but still musters enough strength to growl: "Tell the priest to get lost. I'm still alive!"

Howard's film pulsates with the same vitality, painting a vivid portrait of men who lived on the edge in an era when racing was genuinely a dance of death.

Upmarket Octavia is a game-changer

By David Duffy

If you were to cover up the badges inside this car, no one would have a chance of guessing the maker's name.

German probably. BMW possibly, Volkswagen a hot favourite. But this level of quality oozing from the cabin of a Skoda? You must be joking.

The Czech car maker has been steadily raising the bar for years, but the latest version of the Octavia is a game-changer.

No longer are you looking at a well-built car with all the engineering backing of the Volkswagen Audi Group at a more affordable price. Now you have a car that rivals Volkswagen models in every conceivable way and still costs less.

Adjectives like durable, dependable and value for money apply to all modern Skoda models, but now you can add desirable. And that applies to everything from the ride and drive, to the interior fit and finish.

With the new Octavia, Skoda just got sexy.

Priced from £16,790, the Octavia Estate is a much sleeker looking model than in the past as well as offering more cabin space, and a whopping boot.

On the move, the new chassis delivers stable handling, a smooth, quiet ride and agile response.

Longer, wider and taller than its predecessor, the refinement and sophistication of the new model come to life in the spacious cabin.

The dashboard, with its redesigned, white-backlit instrument panel, is constructed from high-quality tactile materials, with a clear and uncluttered view of all instruments and controls.

The improvement in streamlined design extends to the electronic systems. The car stereo, navigation system and trip computer are no longer standalone devices, but are wrapped up in a multimedia package, that operates everything through a single device.

The touchscreen display has proximity sensors that detect when a finger is about to touch the screen and can pull up extra information to help with whatever function you want to use. The range of systems available also rival those of top-end luxury saloons; the test model bristling with everything from automatic dipping, follow-the-road, xenon headlights and a driver fatigue sensor, to an automatic parallel parking system that can squeeze the car into a space just 60cm longer than the car itself.

Alongside the technological improvements, practicality sits at the heart of the estate and real advances here include a much simpler mechanism to fold the rear seats and the fitting of a folding front passenger seat, that allows items up to 2.9 metres in length to be carried.

Only pure badge snobbery will keep buyers from choosing Skoda now.

On-track testing starts for Honda hot hatch

HONDA has revealed that the hotly anticipated new Civic Type R will be powered by a direct injection turbocharged 2.0-litre engine and will deliver at least 280 horsepower.

Last year, Honda confirmed ambitions for the Civic Type R to become the fastest front-wheel-drive car around the infamous Nurburgring circuit in Germany. The car still faces further development before going on sale in 2015, but on-track testing has already begun.

Speaking at the Frankfurt Motor Show Manabu Nishimae, President, Honda Motor

Europe, added: "We have recently spent a week at the Nurburgring, carrying out extensive testing and we are on target, and have already set a time approaching the lap record."

The car has already been put through its paces by Honda's WTCC driver Gabriele Tarquini and a film demonstrating its storming performance and handling on the Nurburgring can be viewed at www.myjourneys.com/typer. Honda has also confirmed the Civic Tourer will achieve impressively low CO2 emissions from just 99g/km and an outstanding 74.3mpg when powered by Honda's 1.6 i-DTEC engine.

Honda says the Swindon-built Civic Tourer builds on the strengths of the hatchback, with extra boot space and practicality and will go on sale in early 2014. Adrian Killham, large project leader for Civic Tourer, said: "For me, the strength of the car is the synergy of functionality, versatility, and dynamic design. As a European development team, we're passionate and proud about what we've achieved."

■ THE new MG3 supermini has been given insurance ratings that start at Group 4E, making it the cheapest car in its sector to get cover for. Despite the low ratings, the MG3 has a credible 105bhp petrol engine, and prices start at £8,399 for the 3TIME base model. Even the top-spec trim only ups the cost to £9,999. Andrew Lowerson, MG's product manager, said: "We've made a car that's very affordable, fun to drive and offers more styling options than most in this class."

■ THE new Hyundai ix35 is now on sale and costs from £16,995, the Korean firm has confirmed. There will be five trim levels for the new SUV, comprising S, SE, SE Nav, Premium and Premium Panorama. All models come with a long list of standard equipment that includes LED daytime running lights, tyre pressure monitoring system and Trailer Stability Assist to help when towing.
